Books for 2017 – 2018 Season

October 2, 2017 A Spool of Blue Thread by Anne Tyler

A poignant yet unsentimental story in praise of family in all its emotional complexity.

November 6, 2017 The Horse Boy by Rupert Isaacson

A Texas couple and their autistic son trek on horseback through Outer Mongolia in a desperate attempt to treat his condition with shamanic hearing.

December 4, 2017 A Dangerous Place: Maisie Dobbs #11 by Jacqueline Winspear

A brutal murder in the British garrison town of Gibraltar leads the investigator into a web of lies, deceit and danger!

February 5, 2018 A Man Called Ove by Fredrik Backman

A grumpy yet lovable Swedish man finds his solitary world turned on its head when a boisterous young family moves in next door.

March 5, 2018 A Colony in a Nation by Chris Hayes

U.S. race relations, primarily the black experience, and law and order as they are experienced across the country.

April 2, 2018 Me Before You by JoJo Moyes

In a tiny English village a couple has nothing in common until love gives them everything to lose...

May 7, 2018 Born a Crime by Trevor Noah

A compelling, inspiring, and comically sublime coming-of-age story set during the twilight of apartheid and the tumultuous days of freedom that followed.
